learn that Mr. C. H. Hutchings has, like the proverbial coin, turned up once again in Happy Valley. "Harry" has quite regained his "old time" health and strength, and we are sure will give a good account of himself at the forthcoming races. Long may he flourish.

We note that the premises of Messrs, A. S. Watson & Co., Ld., are to be illuminated on the evenings of the 22nd, 23rd and 24th inst., the dates fixed as public holidays for celebrating the Jubilee of the colony. By a strange coincidence the Hongkong Dispensary celebrates its jubilee on the 22nd, for it was established in 1841.

THAT Vice-Admiral Sir Nowell and Lady Salmon have by their social qualities, made a legion of friends here is certain, and no doubt there are many who will regret the departure of the genial Admiral and his lady. They leave Hongkong the day after-to-morrow, and we are requested to state that the limited time which remains at their disposal prevents them from taking a personal farewell of their many friends.

PRESIDENT Harrison evidently does not think that the International Marine Conference was held in vain. He says in his message to con gress that it reached very gratifying results. While the Conference did not accomplish as much as was expected, yet its labors planted seed, from which will come great good for shipping generally. Too much was proposed at first but ground has been broken for a broad road to needed reforms, and not much more should be expected from the labors of the first Conference.

DR. W. A. P. MARTIN, President of the Imperial College, Peking, now in New York, spoke on December oth, on the Mental Life of the Chinese, and refuted the idea that they were merely imitators. He considers that the nation has furnished the world with the most orginal thinkers, Confucius being only second to Christ as a moralist. Dr. Marit remarked that the Japanese were more quick to apprehend, but the Chinese were more capacious and retentive. He noted their advance in educational matters, in commercial and political thought, and gave a hopeful view of the coming century in that empire.

THERE is no little growling in England over MARQUIS' Tokugawa and sulte, late H.I.J.M's the way in which the Royal Reserve treated. It is practically under the control of the Board of Trade, but the opinion is held that if the Reserve is to be really a help to the navy its management should be entirely in the hands of the Admiralty. This is a point for the supporters of the proposed American Naval Reserve. Divided management will not answer. One head, and that the Navy Department, should be the rule in forming the Naval Reserve in the States.

THE entertainment organised for the benefit of the widows and orphans of the seamen and marines, who were lost in the Serpent, took place at the City Hall last night, before a large and enthusiastic audience. The only fault that could be found with the entertainment was the length RACING men throughout China will be glad to of the programme, which we thought might with advantage have been reduced by half. We do not, however, intend to be either captious or critical upon this occasion, for the object was a charitable one, and one which reflected the highest credit upon all those who gave their time and their talents towards making the show the success that it undoubtedly proved. Space will not permit us to notice in full the different items of the programme, but the financial result of the entertainment should prove highly satisfactory, and will afford those who organised the show more satisfaction t an a column of praise.

> THE latest American romance :- Entering a railway-carriage on a bridal tour, the Chicagoan blushing bride saw, with consternation, the man from whom she was last divorced. Her new husband had just also recognised him, having seen his photograph, when the lady by whom the cast-off hubby was accompanied, turned nway from the window out of which she gazed and the fresh one saw that it was a former wife of his own. He began to think that things were mixed and that it was time to go, when his ex-wife leaned across the aisle to him and smiled sweetly. "How do you do, George?" she said. "Congratulate me; I have just been married," "It is a coincidence," he answered; smiling. "So have I." "Really I" she cried. 'Present me." In a moment the four people were chatting together as agreeably as possible. "But where are you going?" one of them asked at length. "Oh, we are going to So-and So." Then why don't we all go there and make a comfortable little family party?" The suggestion was received with acclamation, and was on the spot decided that the four should pass the honeymoon together. They did, and things became still more mixed, and the ar is now thick with divorce suits. George is accused of fli ting with his first wife, while she charges the third wife of George of alienating the affections of her second husband, who brought matters to a head by eloping with his irst divorced wife, who abandoned her two young families for the purpose.

SPORTING GOSSIP.

A sporting correspondent writes :-The programme of the Hongkong Jockey Club Race Meeting for 1891 is very little different in detail from those of the past two or three years. Although the Selling Races, which were n by no means uninteresting or unsuccessful novelty at last meeting, are conspicuous by their absence on this occasion, there are still no fewer than twenty-eight events to be decided during the three days, nine each on the first and second, and ten on the third. It must be admitted that there is quantity enough here to satisfy the most exacting of sporting gourmands, and it is and effective, both increasing the speed and to be hoped that big fields and close finishes will make up for that lack of variety in the character of the sport which is the one great dr wback of Mongolian pony racing as usually conducted in the Far East. Racing at home and in the Australian Colonies is made especially attractive by its infinite variety; there are so many classes of horses and so many ways of bringing them into interesting opposition. There are special events over various distances for two-year olds, three year olds and all ages respectively; the classic races, the Two Thousand Guineas, One Thousand Guineas, Derby, Oaks and St. Leger, to say nothing of the Prince of Wales' Stakes at the stake and making it to the winner about Ascot and similar rich stakes, in which the pick | equal to half the training expenses. It would of the three year olds battle for supremacy; the Cnp races, in which all horses over two years old meet at weight for age; and what are doubtless the most interesting of all, at least (3 the vast majority of race-go rs, are the big handicaps, such as the Lincolnshire Handicap, City and Suburban, Cresarewitch and Cambridgeshire. In China we have races over all distances, but our racers are classified neither by age nor public form "weight for inches" is almost the universal standard, and with the Hongkong, Ladies' Purse under new conditions the last of our handicaps disappear from the list.

I have indicated that the programme of the forthcoming Hongkong Jockey Club meeting perhaps susceptible of some improvement in the way of variety in the dishes provided, but am only too well aware from past experiences of the it difficulties I shall have in converting the powers that be, if not the racing community, to my way of thinking. So far as it goes the bill of fare quite satisfactory, but my contention is that its scope is too limited—it doesn't go far enough. There are plenty of races and they have been carefully arranged and varied, but the conditions generally are based on the long established traditions of the good old times and, in fact, although a substantial banquet, it is highly suggestive of toujours perdrix. The remedy is, course, to provide the requisite change of diet, and OCCASIONALLY, says a writer, there are whispared | this, it must be confessed, is a problem not to be so easily got over; but yet it is not impossible. Variety is said to be the spice of life, and if we could manage to vary our annual sporting feasts in the Happy Valley without any extraordinary amount of trouble or going to unnecessary or extravagant expense, it is a fair inference that South, Wendell Phillips was confronted by a but salt-bush and sky-sky and salt-bush the character of the racing would be much improved and the sport made more generally to a terrible death. But there is a wide field in India and Australia, and it would alone be worth the experiment to see how our native ponies shaped when pitted at weight for inches against Indian Arabs and country-breds, or importations from the Australasian Colonies. reform must stand over for the present. The not laid themselves open to the charge of extravagance this year by adding too much money to the various races; on the contrary, their economy in this respect is considerably overdrawn. In the first day's programme we find $100 added to the Wong-net-chong Stakes, $150 to the Derby, and $100 to the Valley stakes, a total of $350, or about half what ought to have been added to the Derby alone. The Ashley Cup is presented by Mr. D. R. Sassoon, and the Jockey Club generously freezes on to the entrarce fees instead of giving them to the second pany, and a similar policy is pursued with the Foochow Cup. presented by the community of Foochow. Our Portuguese friends of the Ciuo Lusitano courteously present the Lusitano Cup, and the Jockey Club annexes one half of the $10 entrance fees,-the other half going the second pony. Owners are graciously permitted to run for seventy-five per cent of their own money in the Hongkong h Club Cup the trophy being a gift from the members of that institution, and in the Compradores' Cup the second pony is entitled to one half of the entries. Next to the Derby, the Valley Stakes is the most important race on Thursday's card and in point of interest is second to none at the Meeting, it will attract the largest field and represents the true sporting elements which have made the Subscription Griffin contests the backbone of racing in Hongkorg, and yet the Stewards have seen fit, for reasons I will not att-mpt to fathom, to add only a shabby $100, material y reducing the value of almost appear as if the Stewards were again anxious to abolish, or at all events to discourage, the popular Subscription Griffin races. tried the experiment in 1880 and by so doing reduced the meeting of that year to a mere shadow. On the second day $100'to the first and $50 to the second pony are added to the Scurry Stakes, the same amounts to the Flyaway Stakes, and the princely sum of $100 to the Welter Plate. Per contra the Club annexes the half of the entrance fees to the Exchange Plate and Brokers' Cup, a quarter of those to the German And yet I venture to say that there is no pony, and Professional Cups and the whole of the racing in the world that equals, nay, even entries for the Parsee and Jockey Cups approaches the grand sport provided in China- are actually gobbled up by "the Fund.". This especially in Shanghai and Hongkong-both is thrift with a vengeance, but it is a policy for large fields and thoroughly good racing. The scalectly calculated to encourage racing. owners. I cannot but think that they are entitled Gridiron in 4 min. 24 secs., it must be admitted | to far more liberal treatment from the Jockey Club. The cost of a racing stable is a ve.y heavy item, and as the days of race lotteries and reports of the races held at Hongkong last betting on any extensive scale in this colony February or at Shanghai in May and November | have apparently passed away, the stakes are all to obtain conclusive evidence of the great suc- that owners have to depend on to recoup themcess which the sport of kings has attained in the selves; but if a sing'e owner with a stud of ten or a dozen ponies were by a miracle to wi the added money given by the Club, he would even then scarcely find it sufficient to pay his stable expenses. This system of carrying on racing is a substantial hardship, and, moreover, is manifestly unfair to those who provide the sport, and as the Jockey Club is passing rich and. has a splendid income which could easily be increased, it is about time the Stewards were recognising the requirements of the altered times in which we live. It would take longer time and more space than I can spare at present to go thoroughly into this important matter, but it cannot but be generally recognised that considerable changes in the directions I have indicated are desirable, and owners, for their own protection, must use their combined influence to effect whatever reforms may be deemed necessary before next year. It is too much to expect "Sports," no matter how enthusiastic, to bring their racers from the Coast Ports to Hongkong at such great risk and expense so long as the stakes offered for competition are of the paltry character so constituous in the present programme. In Shanghai, racing is a very different matter to what it is in Hongkong. It is not half so costly as it is here, and the Race Club has, with one or two exceptions, to provide all the prizes, - presentation cups being few and far between-and yet, as a whole, owners are more liberally dealt with than in this colony. course I am well aware that a new grand stand and other improvements are wanted badly at Wong-nei-chong, but money for all such purposes can readily be obtained either by the Issue of debentures or by public subscription. It will be found sound policy to offer every possible inducement to sporting residents at the Coast Ports to bring their ponies to Hongkong, and as a matter of racing ethics it cannot be disputed that owners who contribute so largely to the Race Fund have a well understood right to liberal treatment for providing the sport. I must leave further dis cussion of the programme for another letter. Entries for the forthcoming meeting close to the Clerk of the Course to-morrow, and if time wil permit I will give your readers particulars o the 'doings of the day.' It is expected that moderalely safe line may be drawn in re ultimat winners from what we will see in Happy Valley to-morrow morning.

Hongkong, January 16th, 1891.

PRESENTATION OF AN ADDRESS TO VICE-ADMIRAL SIR NOWELL SALMON.

This interesting ceremony took place just as the sun was making its farewell wink last evening, and in the presence of what our religious contemporary would term a fashionable assembly. There were many ladies present, a fair sprinkling of business men, young Belilios, a few lawyers and ourselves. They all seemed happy except Sir Nowell, but to his credit be it said, he kept his countenance and looked as dignified as could be expected under the circumstances. At a given signal Mr. J. J. Keswick arose and with a voice quivering with emotion addressed the Admiral and the multitude thus -Admiral Salmon, the reason of the presence of the many friends whom you see before you is to take farewell of you on the occasion of your relinquishing the command of the Naval Station at all events in second years, had a really fair in Chine, which you have eccepted during the trial; however, its serious discussion as a practical last three years with very great acceptance to the public generally. The many friends whom you Stewards of the Jackey Club have certainly | see present have been good enough to commit to me the pleasant duty of offering you the address which I am now about to read. The address is as follows :-

Hongkong, 15th January, 1891. To Vice-Admiral Sir Nowell Salmon, V.C., KC.B.

SIR,-Ere you leave these seas over which,

as Admiral of Her Britannic Majesty's Eastern

Fleet, you have watched for the last three years, we wish to record the pleasure that is afforded us of extressing the kindly sentiments which, during your stay in the East, we have entertained towards you and the regret that we feel in your approaching departure. (Doubt visibly depicted upon the Admiral's face). It is a grateful remembrance to knew, now that you are leaving us, that our mutual intercourse has always rested on a friendly foundation-a result due as much to your reciprocity as to any efforts of ours. Hongkeng is on the eve of its Jubilee, and before the expiration of many hours we shall be celebrating that event. In the progress of the island, from the time when Great Britain first assumed its ownership, and proclaimed it an appendage to her Crown, England's Royal Navy has been a potent factor. If during the last fifty years our colony has advanced its population, if it has extended the scope of its commerce and increased its wealth, it must be admitted that a sense of security, engendered by the presence of Her Mejesty's Fleet, has tended to this success. (Sir Nowell, like ourselves, puzzled and pondered considerably over this sentence.)

Member as you are of an honourable and distinguished profession, it could not but have beencongenial to your mind if, during your command in China, you had experienced more stirring operations than it has been your lot to know. Fortunately, however, during th t period our relations with other great Powers have been pacific, and in these waters at least, the watchward has been Peace. Yet none the less do we acknowledge the grave responsibilities that at all times attach themselves to the high office which you are now relinquishing, none the less do we realise that had hostile eventualities demanded your attention, the interests of our community and of British subjects throughout the Far East would have been, under your guidance, as efficiently safeguarded as they have been in the past. The efforts of your career assure us of this, recalling amongst their earlier scenes Lucknow's eveniful history of November 1856, when you won the Victoria Cross The story of a gallant action survives time itself, and in the incident of the Indian Mutiny, one of the most glorious, if one of the most distressful annals of the British rule in India, you found your name.

In whatever direction duty will henceforth becken you, in whatsoever clime your country will hereafter call on you to uphold the honour. of her flag, you will carry with you our confidence in your ability, and our best wishes for your

To Lady Salmon we ask you to convey our kindly farewells -- We have the honour to be, Sir, your very faithful servants.

This, sir, is the address which I am about to present to you, and in doing so I may mention that it is signed by at least five hundred of all nationalities of this community. (An expression of incredulity here flitted across the Admiral's countenance.) In precenting it to you on behalf of the signatories, I beg to express their good wishes for the future welfare of yourself and family, with the assurance that they will follow closely at all times with great interest the career which you may be called upon, in the exercise of your duty, to follow. (Applaush.)

Admira' Salmon, in accepting the address, said-Mr. Keswick, ladies and gentlemen, I have to thank you very much indeed for the very kindly-worded address you have presented to me to-day and which I must say, up to a few days ago, was very unexpected. It is a matter of great regret to me to have to leave just on the eve of your Jubilee celebration, but, unfortunately, the orders under which I am acting were given to me before I was aware of your arranges. ments. However, I shall leave some representatives of the Navy here, and I hope they will take part in them and rejoice with you. Your prosperity for the last fifty years has been perfectly astounding. I hope it may continue, but I almost think if it does at the past rate, you will want a bigger island. It is very fortunate that during my command peace should have reigned throughout the Eastern seas. It is very fortunate for commerce at large, for there can be no question that should we ever be at war with a naval Power, commerce must be interrupted and must suffer. The Suez Canal it is quite certain would be interrupted; and for a time certainly, until these connections could be restored, the general commerce throughout the East would be interrupted, no matter how good or how ably commanded the naval forces might be. I wish that the naval forces could be stronger, but still we have made some steps in advance. I think the ships composing the squadron now compare favourably with those here when I first came out-(applause)-I refer to the class of ships, The ships composing the present squadron I have no hesitation in saying are all in good order. They are accustomed to work together, and officers and men are animated by the best spirit. (Applause). Independently of danger from enemies I think. I am bound to refer to a danger which exists among you, in your very midst, and which occurs from time to time. think you understand that I mean—that particular description of piracy to which you are exposed occasionally. It is of a nature entirely Chinese; it is not known anywhere else. I think there is but one way to deal with it and that is prevention. The prevention of it rests with you; I do not know of any cure for it. I think now it is about time that I said farewell to you. I thank you most beartily for all kind expressions you have made use of in the address. I have, as you say, made many friends, many I shall be sorry to leave behind. On behalf of Lady Salmon, to whom you have so kindly sliuded in the address, I beg to thank you most heartily.

Cheers for Sir Nowell and Lady Salmon brought the proceedings to a close, much to the relief of the gallant Admiral who looked dreadfully bored by the entire business.

NEWS BY THE AMERICAN MAIL.

The following telegrams from our San' Francisco exchanges were "crowded out" of last night's issue :-

BALTIMORE, December 16th. The committees of Irish-Amedians to arrange for the reception of the Irlsh envoys to-morrow night have passed resolutions recognizing Parnell's past services and eulogizing O'Brien's position in seeling for the reconciliation of the trish f ctions.

DUBLIN, December 16th. The Irish Times says the Pope is conidering the appeal sent to him by the Catholics of London, praying his Haliness to pronounce against the Catholics supporting Parnell, because of the latter's wickedness.

Unon the application of counsel on behalf of Parnell the court granted an injunction restraining the publication of the Suppressed United Ireland.

PARIS December 16th.

Seven Alpine chasseurs and an officer, who were working at the new fortress on the summit of Mount Socharal between La Brega and Revice, were swept by a sudden blast over a precipice into an aby is. Five of the ten men and the officer fell 2,500 feet. The bodies were frightfully mutilated. Two of the men managed to cling to the rocks and escaped.

SYDNEY, December 16th. Kemp, the oarsman, who was defeated yesterdiv by McLean, will not come to America, and will forfeit his deposit to secure a match with O' onnor.

LONDON, December 16th. Evidence before the court of inquiry on the loss of the cruiser Serbent shows there was no DESPERANDUM_STAKES, of $5 each with | pinic aboard the vessel. The crew died manto added. Second Pony Sig; for all beaten | fully and the Commander acted with coolness

Seven hundred plush weavers in Bradford have struck, and as many more will be out by the end of the week, against a reduction of wages, alleged to be due to the McKinley bill.

NEW ORLEANS, December 16th.

Jack Dempsey left for Galveston this evening. He did not see Fitzsimmons, Jimmy Carroll coming over instead. Carroll said his prinicpal is suffering from la grippe, but everybody understood that the object is not to let Dempsey see his giant rival until they meet in the ring. Dempsey had it understood that the men were not to weigh over 154 pounds in sing costume, and step from the scales to the ring. The referce will be chosen the night before the fight. Dempsey then put his $1,000 forfeit, and the match is now binding on both sides. 'Carroll was asked with reference to meeting McAuliffeagain, and says he will fight after the coming battle for any amount, but the weight must be 133 pounds.

WASHINGTON, December 16th, bill providing for the systematic exploration of Alaska is likely to receive consideration by Congress soon. It provides that the Secretary of Wir shall send a party into the interior of Alaska, and appropriates $100,000 to defray the expenses of the expedition, It is proposed that the party shall remain three years, in order that the observations may be absolutely trustworthy, and finally set at rest the sational scandals. various and conflicting reports regarding the Alaskan Territory.

The Secretary of War warmly approves the in his annual report: When the bill becomes a law. Lieutenant L. W. V. Kennon will, without doubt, be one of the army officers detailed to for an issue of $5,000 000 in bonds in aid of the with blood. In the next room John Spearman accompany the expedition.

NEW YORK, December 16th. The fact was made public to-day that Doke D'Auxy, a Belgian nobleman, had been arrested The duke was arrested on a warrant issued by Tustice Corbett of New Brighton, the specified charge being "An attempt to feloniously cheat and defraud Mr. Rhodes of goods and property worth $45.20." Justice Corbett released the defendant on his own recognizance and set the case down for hearing to-day.

LONDON, December 16th. In the libel suit to-day Marks was crossexamined. He admitted he had very little money when he arrived in London in 1883. Soon after his arrival he projected the Financial News, Colonel McMurdo providing the first | £1,000 with which to start it. He did not know officer. that Cohen, who started as sub-editor of the receipien of shares, lived with Benjamin. He declared it to be a falsehood to assert that he had extorted £250 in money and £1,000 in shares as blackmail from the Simplex Typewriter Company in 1886. Mr. Goodheart, the New York attorney, confirmed Marks' statement that the Widow Koppel had voluntarily withdrawn the charges against him.

Boston, December 16th. A civil action has been begun by Mrs. Annie Everett for Jonathan Bourne of New Bedford to recover $48,000 from John Stetson for money alleged to have been lost in gambling in rooms occupied by the "Carlton Associates," in Howard Place. Stetson is president of the Associates. Bourne came into a fortune of $1,000,000 a year ago, and it is claimed he was the victim of a fleccing game, KILKENNY, December 17th. Kilkenny has been as calm as a cake of ice to-day. Last night both sides breathed vengeance. Parnell's followers claim that the sight of his right eye has been destroyed. From a botel window Redmond announced; "If the other side mean war, if they scald out the leader's eyes, we will reply in kind." This was one of the mildest threats made, and it was supposed that both sides would go to the meetings to-day, prepared for slaughter, but nothing Parnell's followers held meetings at Grand and Callan, but there was no opposition at either. Their opponents held a meeting at Freshford, which was remarkably peaceful.

DUBLIN, December 17th. Though Parnell suffered intense pain from the effects of the lime thrown in his eyes yesterday, he was able at midnight to address from the window of the Victoria Hotel at Kilkenny a large Southern Russian, a Jewish father has been | crowd. During his address his face was covered. with bandages. Many threats of informed that their Goods, with the exception of vengeance were made.

This morning Parnell's breakfast was served him in bed. A close examination of his eyes revealed the fact that-his sight is not injured. The surgeon declares, however, that infilmation may set in. He ordered Parnell to keep his eyes. closed that hot water foments may be constantly applied. It is not likely that he will be allowed to leave his room to-day.

It was announced this afternoon that the surgeon attending Parnell fears that the injuries to his eyes may result in serious consequences. He has given, orders that for the present his have left the Godowns, and all claims must be patient shall remain indoors.

Hennessy-has expressed to the committee having in charge the campaign of his opponent and to Vincent Scully his regret for the attack

Parnell has issued a strong appeal to the hillside men, calling on them not to submit to Notwithstanding the injunction issued sgainst | you tally around him as your fathers did around for Parnell, the leader of the independent Trish party ?
